Acknowledgments

The present volume has benefited enormously from the support of the Institute of Advanced Studies at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, which hosted the 2006 conference on Eurasian nomads that underpins this volume and provided a variety of technical and financial assistance to us in its preparation. We are also grateful to the Israel Science Foundation for helping to fund the conference and for providing us with significant support for our work over the past few years, including the writing of our chapters and other tasks involved in editing the volume.

Our colleague Professor Gideon Shelach-Lavi has been a key collaborator throughout and helped us with the editing of certain chapters, for which we are very grateful. It is a pleasant task to express our appreciation and thanks to Dr. Leigh Chipman and Mr. Avi Aronsky, who assisted with language editing, and to our students Or Amir, Ishayah Landa, and Yang Qiao, who helped with technical matters, not least in preparing the bibliography. We are grateful to all of our contributors for their goodwill, forbearance, and cooperation throughout the preparation of this volume.
